Dear Allsafe Customer,

It was great to see customers both old and new at our recent exhibition at the Food & Drink Expo and good to hear such positive feedback about our products - thank you for your support.

As promised we have a link to a FREE food safety training DVD. This has been produced by the Food Standards Agency providing training support for Safer Food Better Business. Even though it has been developed for the catering and retail industries it has relevant sections applicable for any food business including food manufacturers. It also has the added benefit of providing voiceovers in no less than 16 languages by selecting these on the menu.

I think this is an excellent resource to help get the food safety message across. It will also assist many BRC certificated companies achieve some food hygiene training requirements 'in the appropriate language' which you will see mentioned in various clauses of the new BRC standard.

Click the 'SFBB Food Hygiene DVD' link on the menu to access ordering information for this free DVD.

Why not formalise your training with our Level 2 Foundation Food Hygiene Distance Learning course at only £12 for the course and exam! Click 'Level 2 Food Safety' on the menu for details. This will provide certificated evidence of your training.

It was clear from the exhibition that many companies still do not carry out any formal HACCP Training.

Under Regulation (EC) No 852/2004 which is enforced by The Food Hygiene (England) Regulations 2006, it states that those responsible for the development and maintenance of HACCP have received adequate training in the application of the HACCP principles.

Have you received adequate training in the application of the HACCP principles?

If not, for just £15:50 you can take our HACCP Foundation Distance Learning course, this includes the exam and certificate. The course covers both catering and manufacturing sectors and will be seen as a positive step by any visiting Environmental Health Practitioner or food safety auditor

Click the 'HACCP Training' Link on the menu for full details and secure online ordering.

Late News - Bulgarian translation of the Food Hygiene and Health & Safety Induction Programme is now available - Click 'Translations' on the menu for more details.

In the next newsletter there will be an update on allergen legislation. Future newsletters will cover Food Safety Week, BRC Standard update, training update, Traceability and look out for some special promotions.
